Day 3- Monday 16 April 2012

After Breakfast, we head to the mountains to discover the amazing nature of the Nebrodi National Park. Full day excursion, please bring comfortable shoes. A mountain range that runs along the north east of Sicily. Together with the Madonie and the Peloritani, they form the Sicilian Apennines. Mountains made into national parkland. The park covers 856.87 km². It touches on many of the comuni in the mountains and is one of the largest protected parks in Sicily. The mountains run from the Peloritani on the eastern part of the island to the foothill of the Madonie mountains to the west, facing the Tyrrhenian Sea on the north. Mount Etna, from which it is separated by the rivers Alcantara and Simeto, forms the range's southern border. The highest peak is the Monte Soro (1,817 m). The range mostly made up of sandstone and clay rocks, but include also limestone landscapes, like the Rocche del Crasto. Towns that are situated in the mountains include Ficarra, Troina, Nicosia, Mistretta and a number of other towns in the province of Messina.

It is one of the eight Aeolian Islands, a volcanic arc north of Sicily. The volcano is constantly active with minor eruptions, often visible from many points on the island and from the surrounding sea.

Stromboli has been in almost one continuous eruption since 20,000 years. On our excursion We visit the Island villages of San Bartolo, San Vincenzo and Ginostra (that houses the Italian president Napolitano).

Visiting the volcano:

It is possible to climb the volcano, you need a guide and five hours of your time in order to do so (please advise at time of booking) extra charge applies including equipment rental payable locally at Euros 50pp

Particularly impressive is seeing the eruptions at night. If you don't like a strenuous exercise, on the boat, from the seaside you can watch the spectacle while sipping a glass of Marsala wine. Dinner at the Hotel.
